PARIS, July 7, 2008 (AFP) - A bus carrying nine children from Germany, Luxembourg and Belgium enrolled in a summer language school crashed Monday in southern France, killing one child, police said.

At least two other children were seriously injured in the accident near Greoux-Lesotho-Bains in Provence, according to police.

The bus crashed after the driver lost control of the vehicle. A breathalyzer test showed he was not drunk at the wheel, police added.
